Development sparks fear of rental houses

By MICHAEL SIMMONS msimmons@onlinemadison.com

Developers of a planned subdivision off Yandell Road agreed to work with the Madison County Board of Supervisors to implement covenants to make it harder to rent homes.

The action followed a lengthy discussion on Monday over everything from the reputation of the national home builder to the sizes of Woodgate subdivision, which will feature approximately 379 homes ranging from 1,500 square feet and up, is going to be built by D.R. Horton, a national homebuilding company that has received negative publicity over the last few years for allegations of sub-par construction. The company has been involved in a number of lawsuits include Carl Sandberg, Nick Gullette, and Parker Sullivan, all of Madison County.

Supervisors unanimously approved a preliminary plat for the subdivision back in March, and are seeking approval of the final plat. However, concerned citizens living in neighboring subdivisions are worried about D.R. Horton as the homebuilder, the size of the homes, the potential for the new homes to become rentals, and the overall impact on existing home values.

The developers and representatives of D.R. Horton answered a barrage of questions from both supervisors and citizens for over an hour on Monday.

Before the discussion even began, Board Attorney Mike Espy cautioned supervisors about what they say, alluding to the possibility of a lawsuit from the developers if the

$9 MILLION Topgolf developers seeking tax rebates

By DUNCAN DENT duncan@onlinemadison.com

RIDGELAND — Developers of the proposed Topgolf development here are seeking about $9 million in sales tax rebates through a Mississippi Development Authority program designed to invest in tourism in the state.

PraCon Global Investment Group hopes to utilize the Tourism Project Tax Incentive Program Act following MDA approval.

The project will divert 80 percent of sales tax collected from the project for a term of 15 years or when 30 percent of certain approved costs by the MDA has been collected. The term will end after that amount is collected or after 15 years, whichever happens first.

Gabriel Prado, CEO and president of PraCon Global Investment Group, said they expect to collect around $8.7 million in ten years through the rebate plan. He said they expect Topgolf to represent a close to $30 million investment.

The Board of Aldermen approved a resolution offering their support for the TPTPA diversions following MDA approval.

"The City is in full support of the Tourism Project and supports the application by the Applicant to MDA for the benefits allowed pursuant to the Tourism Program," the resolution reads in part.

Mayor Gene F. McGee said he was happy to see the resolution pass noting he thought it was a "very good program" that would bring such an asset to the state and city.

"The next step is to get Topgolf going," he said.

Prado said he hoped to break ground on the project within the next 30 or 60 days following the Architectural Review Board approval for the Topgolf facility at the regularly scheduled city board meeting on Oct. 3, of this month.

"This is a milestone," Prado said. "We are very excited and grateful for the support we have received from the Mayor and

Germantown Band gearing up for competition this weekend

By DUNCAN DENT duncan@onlinemadison.com

The Germantown High School Band is gearing up for the first 7A band competition this weekend at Northwest Rankin High School.

"We are the current 6A state champions so I guess we will be defending that in a way in the firstever 7A championships," Germantown High School Director of Bands Justin Harvison said.

Harvison has been with the district for 16 years and helped found the band program at Germantown High School 13 years ago. He said his group of around 170 students is ready to compete.

"We have an exceptional group of students this year," Harvison said.

Their show this year is titled 'Sonic Bloom" and features arrangements of existing music that Harvison called a "psychedelic intersection of music and nature. Basically the idea is What if plants could make their own music?" Harvison said.

Music selections for the show include "The Bioluminescence of the Night" from the album Avatar by James Horner, Kingfisher's "Catch Fire" by John Mackey, "Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini" by Sergei Rachmaninov, "The Rite of Spring' by Igor Stravinsky, "Flight of the Bumblebee" by Nicolai Rimsky-Korsakov and "Firefly" by Ryan

He said this is a mix of music that people will recognize and some selections people will likely encounter for the first time.

"There is a lot of variety in the music," Harvison said. "I think there is something for everyone. The students love it.

Guard captains Ma'Cauli Hawkins, Brigitte Pepper, Christina Carter, Parker Turner and Catherine Lacey both.

GHS has already performed well at invitational competitions this year including recent events in Ridgeland and Pearl. At both competitions, they took superior ratings in all six categories and were named champions of

Following the state competition, Harvison will take the band to St. Luis for the Bands of America Super Regional where they finished in the top 20 last year out of 70 bands.

Madison police bust up burglary ring

By DUNCAN DENT duncan@onlinemadison.com

MADISON — Three Florida women have been arrested and charged in connection with a series of car burglaries here last week.

"The Madison Police Department expresses gratitude to the Richland Police Department, Pearl Police Department, Flowood Police Department, Rankin County Sheriff's Department, Forrest County Sheriff's Department, and the Alabama State Troopers for their assistance in capturing the suspects," Madison Police Captain Kevin Newman said. 13-year-old charged in shooting death of Canton teen

By DUNCAN DENT duncan@onlinemadison.com

CANTON — A 13-yearold boy has been charged in the shooting death of another juvenile at a residence here Friday.

Tristin Johnson, 13, was arrested and charged in the shooting death of 15-year-old Larry Taylor, according to Police Chief Otha Brown.

Johnson has been charged with negligence and manslaughter, he said.

Brown said another juvenile, who is also 15 years old, has been charged with accessory after the fact. Brown said he is unable to release this juvenile's name at this time due to his involvement in youth court.

The charges stem from a call CPD received on Friday, Oct. 6, at about 6 p.m. reporting a shooting at a Frost Street residence.

Once officers arrived on scene, Brown said they found Taylor who had been shot in his side.

According to Brown, the suspects were charged later that evening when they were brought in for questioning.

The case will be handed over to the Madison County District Attorney's Office.

Taylor was a student at Porter Middle School. The Canton Public School District released this statement on Monday, Oct. 9, in regards to his death that said:

'The Canton Public School District Family extends its heartfelt condolences and sincere sympathies to the family and friends of Porter Middle School student Larry Taylor. You are in our prayers as we mourn with you over the loss of your loved one."

board were to go as far as rescinding the preliminary

"I see a stenographer, that's fine," Espy said. "The board did not invite or hire the stenographer. I assume it's from developers. There's a lot of inferences. As your lawyer, whatever you say, your words will be taken down. It may be for litigation. It may not be.'

Espy warned supervisors of "rezoning, reliance, and recension.

He said this was not a matter of rezoning, so the board can't take into consideration things like a change in the neighborhood. He said the developers relied on the unanimous approval of the preliminary plat to get started with ground clearing so the county could be liable for damages if the board ultimately decided to rescind the plat.

"There will be a measure of damages if this thing ever ends up in court, I'm sure,' he said.

District 2 Supervisor Trey Baxter asked Espy how the county could regulate whether or not these houses can be leased, with Espy saying there would have to be language in the covenants. Covenants are prepared by the developer, not the county.

"If you try to impose these restrictive standards on them, they're going to ask if you did it to anybody else," he

Sandberg and Gullette told supervisors that the intent was not to create a build-to-rent neighborhood, meaning that the goal is to sell these homes to homeowners and not for rental property.

But, they said it was illegal to put a blanket restriction on rentals because it would violate federal law and certain language would also impact the ability to receive an FHA or VA home loan.

Board President Gerald Steen said that there are subdivisions in the county that don't allow for any rentals at all. Baxter said the municipalities have strict guidelines for rentals.

"We don't want to do anything that's illegal from a Fair Housing (Act) standpoint or prejudice to a class of individuals," Gullette said.

Gullette said that even if a neighborhood outright bans rentals, that doesn't mean it's legal, just that it hasn't been challenged.

'We don't want to do anything illegal with this development," he said.

Sandberg said that he was unable to find any neighborhoods with outright bans and only a handful with restrictions, such as a fee and length of occupancy requirements.

David Humphries, an attorney with Carson Law Group representing the developers, said he was sure they all could come to an agreement on covenants to ease concerns.

"I think that these guys are perfectly willing to take a suggested covenant — take it and consider it and most likely incorporate it," he said.

Humphries then asked the board to treat other developers the same way, saying recently two other subdivisions were approved without discussion or asking for rental restrictions.

He said everyone needs to be on "the same playing field.

Scott Whitehurst, the regional president for the Gulf Coast region of D.R. Horton, said they, too, aren't looking at this becoming a rental neighborhood and that everyone seemed to be on the same page but saying different things. He also tried to alleviate concerns from the board members and others about the company's recent negative publicity.

Whitehurst said that they use the same local subcontractors and local suppliers as other builders, a sentiment echoed by District 4 Supervisor Karl Banks.

'We have built a million houses," Whitehurst said. "Have we screwed up? Yep. Do we always try to make it right? Yes. That's what we strive to do, a little better than we did yesterday. We're not perfect, but we try to be."

Sandberg said he was aware of the negative publicity and ended up touring a development in Alabama that Woodgate would be modeled after. He said he even built a house in Sweetbriar Plantation where D.R. Horton has built homes.

Banks said in his over 30 vears as a county supervisor. the board has never asked a developer who was going to be building the homes, and that the issue with Woodgate all centered around D.R. Horton and national negative

"For some reason in this development, these developers have been getting hit upside the head," he said. "I feel sorry for the developers."

The lengthy discussion didn't leave many assurances for concerned citizens though. Regina Edwards, a resident of Deerfield, said she has read all the negative publicity and just doesn't "trust" D.R. Horton "right now."

What are you going to do to ensure that our property values do not depreciate with the Woodgate development," she asked the board, before saying if they do lose home values the board and developers could expect a lawsuit to

She is also concerned about the traffic situation on Yandell Road.

Mona Crothers brought up mold issues in D.R. Horton homes and asked if a D.R. Horton employee would move into a D.R. Horton home. She also wanted to know the number of houses that will be over 2,200 square

Whitehurst said they have had mold problems in the past, mainly in coastal areas, but they are familiar with the local climate. As far as the square footage of homes, he said the minimums are the minimums but the market will ultimately dictate what is Sandberg said he hopes the entire development is completed within the next 8 years.

PAID POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

Clay Mansell seeks election as State Representative

I am honored to announce my candidacy for Mississippi House District 56.

For twenty years, the people of House District 56 have benefitted from solid, conservative leadership with Speaker Philip Gunn as our representative. With his decision to not seek re-election to the House of Representatives, the people of House District 56 will need to elect a new leader who will take up the mantle and continue advancing common sense solutions to the issues facing our state.

From economic and educational issues to infrastructure and public safety concerns, it is my intention to represent the people of Clinton, Madison and Flora following the common sense, problem-solving conservative Republican ideas that have moved Mississippi in a positive direction since Republicans gained control over legislative and statewide offices.

Originally from Madison County, I moved to Clinton in 1997 to attend Mississippi College and earned a degree in Business Administration. I and my wife of twenty-one years, Amanda Puryear, have three children: Annabelle (15), Bentlee (9) and Grayson (3). We attend Morrison Heights Baptist Church.

I have spent my entire career as an entrepreneur and small business owner. I understand firsthand how government regulations and bureaucracy can impede private sector growth and make it harder for small business owners to provide for their families. Owning several local eateries and ten local community newspapers in the state, including papers in both Hinds and Madison Counties, gives me the unique perspective to understand the needs of District 56.

I am not a politician. In fact, until encouraged to run for this office by Philip Gunn, holding political office had never been on my radar. For twenty-five years, I have been a serial entrepreneur and owner of multiple successful businesses. experience has taught me the absolute importance of conservative fiscal management, as well as given me the skill set to get along with a wide array of people and get things accom-

In addition to responsible management of taxpayer dollars, I also will prioritize job creation and economic development, education, public safety, and infrastructure. The children in Mississippi's foster care system are also especially near and dear to my heart.

Our family has fostered eleven foster children over the last four years and adopted one child. Each life has value, and we must protect all of our children and ensure they are given every opportunity to succeed in life. For the sake of these children, as well as every child in Mississippi, it is crucial that our state institutions function at the highest possible effectiveness.

Serving people and our community is a high priority in my life. I serve as Chair of the Board of Trustees for Merit Health Hospital, immediate Past President of the Mississippi College Alumni Association and serve on numerous other boards.

When called upon to serve, I take it seriously, and I step up to do the work. If you see fit to elect me, I promise to serve you honorably and do the work.

I am asking for your prayers, your support and your vote as I seek to serve the people of Clinton, Madison and Flora as your state representative for House District 56.

I look forward to meeting you on the campaign trail!

Veterans Town Hall set for Oct. 25

By JOHN LEE

Madison County is holding a Veteran's Town Hall in Canton on Oct. 25 to offer vital information for veter-

Madison County Veteran Service Officer Mendell Kemp says there are over 6,000 veterans in the county and this town hall will be an important place for veterans to raise any concerns they have about things like disability and pension claims, survivor's benefits, and more.

This town hall will clear up any misunderstandings about why claims have recently been denied or if veterans haven't gotten the ratings they think they deserve," Kemp said. "The Jackson VA Regional Office has been closed for over a year due to mold in the building and the original staff is working from home. Because of this, there is a lot of information veterans need. As the County Veteran Service Officer and Vietnam veteran, I see every day that veterans need information that the office does not have.'

The town hall will be held at the Canton Multipurpose Complex at 501 Soldiers Colony Rd., located about two miles west of the Canton Square. It begins at 3 p.m. and ends at 6 p.m.

Kemp said representatives from the Jackson VA Regional Office, Jackson VA Medical Center, and the Mississippi Veterans Affairs Board will make a presentation and address all questions and concerns from anyone in attendance.

"The Madison County Board of Supervisors and County Veteran Services Office are honoring veterans and their families by providing updated information about accessing Disability and Pension Claims, Education and Job Training, Healthcare, Home Loans and Dependents / Survivor's Benefits," he said. "Veterans will be able to check the status of pending claims and file new claims. They'll have a better understanding of what they are entitled to.' For more information

IRS leaker gets off light

The left shamelessly protects its own. Charles Edward Littlejohn, for example, admitted Thursday he pilfered 15 years' worth of sensitive tax returns from thousands of filers. Despite pulling off one of the biggest privacy heists in history, prosecutors in the Department of Justice gave the serial thief a deal guaranteeing he won't spend much time, if any, behind

That's because Littlejohn's objective in leaking the documents was almost certainly to tilt the 2020 election in then-candidate Joe Biden's favor. In 2019, he realized he could abuse his access as an IRS contractor to look up anyone's tax returns — including those of Donald Trump, the sitting president.

Littlejohn used an elaborate subterfuge to sneak Mr. Trump's tax returns out of a high-security facility so he could forward the records to The New York Times, which proceeded to publish a story with the headline "Long-concealed records show Trump's chronic losses and years of tax avoidance" just five weeks before the election.

Then Littlejohn provided ProPublica what it called "An unprecedented trove of leaked IRS data." The left-leaning website went on to create a series of more than 50 stories revealing purloined facts about prominent taxpayers, framing the material in ways that promoted legislation to raise taxes and "crack down" on individual retirement accounts.

The strategic accessing of tens of thousands of tax returns involved so many people that U.S. District Judge Ana C Reves waived the Crime Victims' Rights Act notification provision saying, "the number of potential victims in this case makes it impracticable to provide all of the victims the rights provided under" the Individuals will never know their returns were leaked unless they happen to stumble upon a webpage buried deep within the DOJ website.

When federal prosecutors went after Mr. Trump, they contorted the law to come up with 91 felony counts, purported crimes of which they could not identify a single victim. But Littlejohn's trespass against thousands somehow merits a solitary count of improperly disclosing tax return information. The longest possible penalty Judge Reves, who was appointed by President Biden, could impose is five years in prison, but sentencing guidelines can reduce that to a few months at most, or none at all.

The leaker surely knows that once he's free, he'll be rewarded for his service to causes held dear by the Democratic Party. He has seen how all of the other "resistance" celebrities elude punishment, or even end up with a job at a university, think tank or other liberal institution.

Then-FBI lawyer Kevin Clinesmith forged evidence to frame Carter Page, a Trump campaign volunteer, as a foreign agent as part of a plot to perpetuate the Trump-Russia hoax. He received probation for his crime and even kept his law license.

Former FBI Deputy Director Andy McCabe, another key figure in the Russia scandal, was fired for ethics violations. But as soon as the Biden administration assumed power, his back pay was restored and he was compensated with a job as a talking head on CNN and as a professor at George Mason University. Another fired FBI agent, Peter Strzok, was given a teaching job at Georgetown.

Unless this cycle of reward is broken, the crimes will continue.

Hating Jews

"Come," they say, "let us destroy them as a nation, so that Israel's name is remembered no more." (Psalm 83:4)

CAL THOMAS

The murderous attack on Israel has ripped away what remained of a thin veneer that has covered up growing antisemitism in America and some of the rest of the world. Until now it has only periodically raised its ugly head. The reaction by pro-Palestinian groups to Israel's necessary and defensible response to the terrorist attacks from Gaza reveals how this disease has spread.

For years prior to the invasion, there were occasional demonstrations against Jewish and pro-Israel speakers on some college campuses. Now, students and even some college presidents have blamed the killings on Israel for its "occupation" of land that is rightfully and historically theirs. This is like blaming Jews for their own deaths in the Holocaust.

After the attacks by Hamas, swastikas emerged in several U.S. cities. The BBC reported antisemitic incidents "quadrupled in the UK.'

We are constantly warned that words matter and so they do. Words can be used to heal, or to incite. The American Jewish Committee (AJC) has compiled a partial list of words used against Jews that have fueled hatred and violence, dating back to medieval times, and now reborn and spread by antisemitic websites.

Two of these include "Dirty, filthy Jews" and "dual loyalty," the latter even used by ex-President Trump to suggest that Jews born in America are more loyal to Israel than the U.S.

There is no "cure" for antisemitism, but universal denunciation by all people of good will might help push it back in the closet, or under the Earth where it belongs.

"From the river to the sea" is another. AJC notes "At a London rally organized by the Palestine Solidarity Campaign on October 9. demonstrators in front of the Israeli embassy chanted 'From the River to the Sea' - a call for Palestinian control over the entirety of Israel's borders, from the Jordan River to the Mediterranean

While it is free expression to advocate for Palestinians to have their own state, this chant is an undisguised call for the state of Israel to be eliminated, which is the point of the Hamas Charter and the goal of Iran.

Add "Deicide" and "Blood Libel" to the list. AJC cites a protestor's sign in Miami that read "Jesus was Palestinian, and you killed him too!"

"In Los Angeles, protesters hoisted a banner with Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu wearing a Hitler mustache and devouring a Palestinian child. Both tropes voiced in 2021 echo centuriesold methods of maligning Jews.'

Then there are the Holocaust deniers. These include people who say The Diary of Anne Frank is fake. Some also claim the Holocaust (if it happened) was a rationale for illegally establishing the modern Jewish state in 1948. Jews have had a presence in the land for nearly 4,000 years. There are also those who say the number of Jews killed during World War II was far less than 6 mil-

No wonder Gen. Dwight Eisenhower ordered photographers to capture images at some of the Nazi death camps. He foresaw there would be people who would deny it hap-

Lyricist Oscar Hammerstein wrote a powerful song for the Broadway musical "South Pacific." Producers wanted to keep it out of the film adaptation, but Hammerstein argued for its inclusion and prevailed. It's called "You've Got to Be Carefully Taught." Babies aren't born haters. Antisemitic books like "The Protocols of the Elders of Zion" and other literature have been amplified today because of social media and various groups with which troubled minds associate, teaching them to hate Jews (and others).

There is no "cure" for antisemitism, but universal denunciation by all people of good will might help push it back in the closet, or under the Earth where it belongs. It also might help if some pro-Palestinian students were forced to listen to a Holocaust survivor and the true history of Judaism and Israel.

Appeasing dictators

The Biden administration is looking to ease sanctions on the regime of Venezuelan President Nicolas Maduro because the socialist dictator promises to hold free and fair elections, according to Monday's Washington Post scoop.

Mr. Maduro's 2018 election victory was widely seen as a fraud, with then-U.S. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo posting on social media: "Sham elections change nothing. We need Venezuelan people running this country...a nation with so much to offer the world."

The United States refused to recognize the tally, and an alliance of 14 Latin American nations and Canada declared the results illegitimate. Next year, Mr. Maduro's term ends, and he's up for reelection.

Under the deal, the Post reported, Mr. Maduro would "commit to accepting international electoral observations and opening up media access for the elections.'

What a joke.

In 2021, a European Union observation mission into Venezuela's regional elections concluded its elections "were marked by an excessive use of state resources in the campaign, unequal access to the media, voter coercion on election day and the arbitrary disqualification of candidates."

Secretary of State Antony Blinken said in a statement after that election that the Maduro regime "deprived Venezuelans yet again of their right to participate in a free and fair electoral process" and "grossly skewed the process."

Based on the pledge of a ruthless despot, the U.S. plans to reward Mr. Maduro by unlocking what is potentially billions of dollars in oil revenue.

President Biden's foreign policy through appeasement hasn't been working so well on the world stage.

In May 2021, the Biden administration waived sanctions on Nord Stream 2, a Russian pipeline feeding gas into Germany. At the time, Mr. Blinken said Mr. Biden wanted "a predictable, stable relationship with Russia."

Nine months later, Russia invaded Ukraine.

Mr. Biden made the same mistake with Iran. In hopes of reviving President Barack Obama's nuclear deal, the Biden administration eased enforcement of the country's oil sanctions.

The total revenue for the world's largest state sponsor of terror during Mr. Biden's tenure is between $81 billion and $90.7 billion, according to estimates from The Heritage Foundation. In contrast, Iran's revenue in 2020 was $7.9 billion under President Donald Trump.

In September, the Biden administration sweetened Iran's coffers by paying $6 billion ransom as part of a prisoner exchange. A few weeks later, Hamas, backed by Iran, invaded Israel, killing some 1,400 civilians.

A wider regional war in the Middle East coupled with Russia's continued assault on Ukraine could disrupt fuel shipments, driving up the cost of oil and gas.

Last year, the Biden administration sold off more than 40% of our Strategic Petroleum Reserve to combat rising gas prices. The reserve now holds 351 million barrels, well below the Obama administration's peak of 727 million barrels.

As gas prices continue to tick up at the pump, Mr. Biden is running out of options to keep prices low. By pursuing his Green New Deal, he has hamstrung domestic energy production.

So off to murderous dictators he goes - hoping and praying some of America's greatest enemies can bail him out with their oil production.

It's a strategy of weakness that will continue to be exploited by the world's worst actors.

CHARLES HURT

Stupid Party vs. Evil Party

I hate to break it to you, House Republicans, nobody cares who you pick as the leader of your silly little club. So just pick the next idiot and get on with your job.

How easy does it have to be? You don't even have to pick someone from the ranks of the blithering morons in Congress.

Just walk out to Independence Avenue, flag down the first cab going by, and haul the driver into the House chamber and make him speaker of the House.

OK, OK. So you people have somehow managed to screw up every corner of this country and the cabdriver you just hauled in off the street doesn't speak English. Then just grab the passenger from the back seat of the cab and make her speaker of the House.

I mean, Dennis Hastert did this job. Hakeem Jeffries could do this job. If they could do it, just about anybody could do it.

President Biden could probably do this job. Vice President Kamala Harris already does this job in the Senate. OK, maybe Mr. Biden would screw it up, but he screws everything up.

America is bankrupt and sits on the precipice of catastrophe, and you guys are squabbling like children over Republicans have to look abroad for problems to solve. If the past is any measure, though, Republicans will somehow screw this up, too.

something nobody about.

We have an invasion of terrorists at the border. Government-funded inflation has spiked consumer prices to the highest point in two generations. Gas prices are already high and once again on the march skyward.

And again, America is bankrupt — $33 trillion in debt — and you clowns are still printing money.

In the last election, American voters put the "good guys" in charge to start solving these problems. Unfortunately, the 'good guys" also happen to be the Stupid Party. Sadly, it is still an improvement over the evil and dishonest alternative.

Now comes House Majority Leader Steve Scalise, the latest sacrificial offering to be speaker of the House. This is great news because it allows Republicans to spend the next year reminding voters how an extremist Democrat radicalized by Sen. Bernie Sanders tried to assassinate Mr. Scalise and as many other Republican lawmakers as he could find.

If the past is any measure, though, Republicans will somehow screw this up, too.

Mr. Scalise is already doing his part. Apparently, America's broken border, gas prices, inflation and the looming threat of China are not enough to get Congress to grow up and start working. But you know what is?

The horrifying, despicable terrorist attacks by Hamas in Israel halfway around the world. Mr. Scalise announced this week that his very first priority if he gets elected to lead the clown show in Washington will be to reiterate our allegiance to Israel.

All well and good, especially since American citizens were killed and an unknown number of American hostages are being held by Hamas savages. But where exactly do Americans have to get in line to have their government address the problems facing them every day?

Israel's security and prosperity are certainly important, but not as important or urgent to Americans as America's security and prosperity.

BIBLE SELECTION

The friendship of the Lord is for those who fear him, and he makes known to them his covenant. My eyes are ever toward the Lord, for he will pluck my feet out of the net.

Mayor signs Fire Prevention proclamation

Mayor Mary Hawkins Butler has officially signed a proclamation recognizing October 8 to October 14 as Fire Prevention Awareness week in Madison. This week serves as a reminder to us all about the importance of fire safety, preparedness, and prevention. Fire incidents can happen at any time, and it's crucial that we take steps to protect ourselves, our loved ones, and our community. Pictured with the mayor, from left, are Chief Derek Layton, Terrence DeFrance, Blakeney Wyman, Bradley Page, Cody Moss and John Mitchell.

BIBLICAL PERSPECTIVES/J. Ligon Duncan III

Jesus before Caiaphas

If you have your Bibles, I'd invite you to turn with me to Matthew chapter 26 verses 57 – 68 where Jesus faces a night and a morning of trials. The gospel writers tell us this in detail so that we would see something of what our Lord underwent that night. They show us that amid this civilized society ruled by the Romans, in which Jewish religious law still had a tremendous hand of effect, Jesus received no justice in the best courts which existed on the entire earth.

In verses 57 – 63, where we see the beginning of the trial, I want you to see Jesus' silence. In verse 64, where Jesus responds to the high priest's question under oath, I want you to see Jesus' bold witness. And then in verses 65 – 68, I want you to see the Sanhedrin's pitiful response to the Lord Jesus.

I. Jesus' Silence

First in verses 57 - 63, Jesus is taken to the Sanhedrin. The scribes and elders are already gathered at the house of Caiaphas. They were the ones who had hatched this plot against Jesus. Matthew writes this so that we might understand that the religious leaders of God's people were the leading con-spirators against the Messiah. In this judicial meeting, they are going to question and try Jesus. And it's important to realize that the Sanhedrin has already decided to convict Jesus. They have already decided they want to put him to death. They are simply try-ing to get the excuse to do it legally. They are trying to find a witness; they are trying to find the evidence necessary so that they can do this legally.

Matthew tells us that two witnesses step forward and accuse Jesus of saying that He was going to destroy the temple and rebuild it in three days. Despite this being an utter misrepresentation of Jesus' words, the charge that they made was very serious. The desecration of holy places was a weighty charge in the ancient world, and especially in Israel.

So the high priest turns to Jesus and asks Him to defend Himself against the charges that have been made. And Jesus remained silent. Now, there's a reason for this. Jesus' silence both shows His contempt for the kangaroo court before which He has been brought, and it also shows the injustice of what is being done. But more significantly, this shows His willingness to submit to God's will and His willingness to die for you. The Lord Jesus Christ is so in love with His people, that He will not stand in the way of an injustice done to His own person so that He can lay down His life. He will not speak because He is committed and determined to die in your place. Jesus' silence before His false accusers shows His willingness to die for your sins.

II. Jesus' Bold Witness In verse 64, you need to understand in the first place that His speaking is not a contradiction of His previous silence. He speaks here under oath from the high priest, not to defend Himself, but to say something that is going to get Him in deeper trouble with the Sanhedrin. He speaks here not to forestall judgment, but in order to clarify the nature of His claim to being the Messiah. Jesus' reply is crystal clear. When the high priest puts Him under oath to the living God, He very clearly tells him who He is, and then He confirms it with Scripture. Jesus is saying to the high priest, "You think you're My judge, but I am your judge. In fact, I am the judge of heaven and earth. I am the one seated by God at His right hand of power to judge the world, and You will see me coming hereafter on clouds with power and glory." He takes them right to Psalm 110 verse 1 which says, "Sit at my right hand until I make Your enemies a footstool for Your feet." And then He alludes to Daniel 7 verses 13 – 14: Behold with the clouds of heaven one like a Son of Man was coming. And to Him was given dominion, glory, and a kingdom, that all the peoples, nations, and men of every language might worship Him." Jesus is declaring to the San-hedrin that He is their Judge. No wonder the high priest tore his robes. You couldn't find a clearer, bolder claim to Jesus Messiahship, His Lordship, and His deity. His answer under oath is a bold witness to

His position and power.

And I want to tell you that every human being must come to grips with that particular claim about the Lord Jesus, because there are only two possible responses. You either defy that claim or you embrace it. Perhaps you are skeptical of the Lord Jesus Christ. He's not letting you off the hook. He's claiming His Lordship over all of us. Have you embraced him?

Have you embraced him?

III. The Sanhedrin's

Pitiful Response

In verses 65 – 68, the response of the Sanhedrin to Jesus' answer is pitiful. The Sanhedrin gets the message. They understand precisely what Jesus is claiming about Himself, but they choose the wrong response. Caiaphas accuses Jesus of blasphemy. Blasphemy, of course, is the sin of claiming to be God or equal with Him, or of attacking God's authority and majesty in any way. And Caiaphas turns to the whole Sanhedrin, and he says, "What do you think?" And they all concur with him. And he says, "What should we do?" And they say, "We ought to put Him to death."

And then we're told that that whole crowd begins to abuse and mock the Lord Jesus Christ. All of this was in accordance with Old Testament prophesy. Remember Isaiah 50 verse 6: "I gave my back to those who strike me, and my cheeks to those who pluck out the beard. I did not cover my face from humiliation or spitting." When you see Christ being struck by the members of the Sanhedrin, you must remember this: By His stripes you are healed. That should have been the hand of God across our faces at the heavenly trial, and He willingly takes it for us from the hands of wicked men because He loves us. The Lord Jesus Christ, in all His glory, endures that humiliation so that we might never, ever experience that humiliation, and so that we might be joint heirs.

If you've come this day with a hard heart for the Lord Jesus Christ, I want you to look at Him as He stands before this fickle, unscrupulous crowd of religious leaders, and He keeps His voice silent to every opportunity of defense. And He only speaks when it is going to lead to His conviction. And He takes it all because He was willing to bear on His back the due penalty for your sin. Hallelujah, what a Savior.

Getting the Message/Rev. Chris Shelton

Life is in Christ

Last week in the first two verses of Daniel 12, we saw the value of salvation. Those whose names are written in the book of life will one day be raised and inherit eternal life. Those who are not in the book of life will be raised to the shame and judgment of their sins. Daniel is seeing into the future, and the Lord Jesus in John 5 said He would be the judge who fulfills these words.

The salvation of your soul, therefore, depends upon knowing Christ. In Daniel 12:3-4, we are moved ahead to the time of Christ coming into the world. In verse 3, we read "the wise shall shine like the brightness of the sky above." But in verse 4, Daniel is told to seal the book until the time of the end, and that "many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall increase."

The phrase "run to and fro" denotes thoroughness. It is connected to the time when knowledge shall increase. Daniel is to seal the book until that time because that is the time Christ is revealed. The Lord Jesus, after He was raised from the dead, explained Moses and the prophets to His disciples (Luke 24). It had been sealed to them (with respect to His sufferings) until then. He also promised that the Holy Spirit would lead the apostles into the truth. We have that truth in the New Testament.

Knowledge increases by knowing the truth of Scripture. And Christ is the light of Scripture. God makes himself known through Christ. In Jeremiah 31, the promise of the New Covenant was that "they shall all know me." How shall they know God? "I will forgive their iniquity and I will remember their sin no more." In John 10, Jesus said that His people would know Him because "I lay down my life for them."

In Philippians chapter 2, the apostle Paul applies the language of Daniel 12:3 to Christians: "Do all things without grumbling and disputing, that you may be blameless and innocent, children of God without blemish in the midst of a crooked and twisted generation, among whom you shine as lights in the world, holding fast the word of life."

Christians shine as lights by living in view of Christ's sufferings and subsequent glory. Christ came into the world to humble himself and be obedient even to death on a cross. So Christ is exalted above every name.

Those who honor Him and confess Him as Lord glorify God the Father (Philippians 2).

Daniel 12:10 looks ahead to those who will understand the things of Christ (the wise) and those who will not understand (wicked). In this world all you find are sinners. Christ came to save sinners. So those who understand come to Him to "purify themselves and make themselves white.' Daniel uses the language of a sinner having his sins washed away and now being clothed in white. It is a description of those whose names will be found in the book of life.

Those who understand these things, understand why the Lord said things like, "Only one thing is necessary" (listening to Him), and "Come unto me" (there is no life or peace apart from Him). We have been given sure knowledge in the gospel, and to reject it is perdition.

Daniel 12:5-13 makes three main points. First, those in Christ will face tribulation that will be severe toward the end. Second, the Lord declaratively assures His people that He is sovereign over all evil, and that the time of the tribulation has a certain end. Third, all who endure by faith until the end will enter into God's rest and their allotted place in the kingdom of God, as Daniel is promised (vs 13).

Every Sunday or Lord's Day reminds Christ's people of His resurrection (which confirms the truth of the gospel), as well as their own future resurrection and entering into the rest God has promised. The rest means no more strife and struggle that is prevalent in the present world of sin and death. There is an end to tribulation for those

There is also the entrance into the fullness of the love of Christ, the love of an infinite being. We have tastes of such heaven here, but those in Christ will know one day how great the love of God is. His love fastens on particular persons, those who are His. Tribulation is short; love is eternal.

The death of Christ is a wonderful exhibition of the full satisfaction of justice required by God. It is the foundation of our confidence before God. It is freely offered to all, and therefore to us. Daniel 12 holds before us life and death. Life is in Christ so pay careful attention to these things.
